-Spectator Notes-

At last. To the myriad who suffer from poison oak every year--relief is here. Carmelite L. J. Hannah has found the balm and is now busy turning it out in his small Monterey plant. Originally he developed the cream as a protection against the poison, but soon found it also stopped the itching and the spread of the stuff after exposure. The Spectator can give personal testimony to its efficacy.

The San Francisco Real Estate Board is making its annual trek to the Lodge for a weekend of golf and hideho. It's an old custom. One time, some years ago, they were at the old Hotel Del Monte. A party was in progress in one of the rooms. About 11 p.m. the boys decided a piano was lacking. They called a prominent Carmel real estate man, demanding he deliver and "cost is no object." Within a half hour the piano was delivered. Everyone was happy. (The bill was $150).

Another Carmelite is headed for Europe. Mrs. William H. Jones of Carmelo street has left for a summer tour of Britain, the Low Countries, France, Spain and Italy. On her way she will visit her son Capt. Kenneth H. Jones and his family in Baltimore.

Gov. Adlai Stevenson (Illinois), admiring the beauty of the coast line from the Highlands Inn, told a short tale about the area which happened in May, 1942. He was flying from San Diego to San Francisco with the late Navy Secretary Knox. He was Knox's assistant. As they passed over San Simeon and The Monterey Peninsula, they made a quick decision. The pilot was instructed to radio ahead to the brass that was waiting telling them the meeting in San Francisco must be delayed. Then they landed at Monterey and proceeded to have an afternoon of golf. They proceeded later refreshed and pleased with their impromptu visit.

Individuals who donate to the monument at Fort Ord will have their names on a list which will be placed in a capsule inside the monument. The monument is being given to the post by all of Monterey County, the drive for funds being headed by Rotary with the aid of other service clubs. The monument will be dedicated on Armed Forces Day, May 17. Contributions of $1 or more can be sent to Box 489, Monterey.

Corum Jackson will be the first Carmel citizen to receive television from the Alarm Corp's cable, which is just now entering the city. The cable is being brought in from Pebble Beach close to his home on Carmelo.

Rudy Ohm, unofficial law enforcer, is on a renewed campaign to catch illegal parkers. He snaps pictures of the culprit's car and shows them to the police. The police then handle the matter through regular channels.

AGREEMENT REACHED ON TV AMPLIFYING BOXES

Cooperation between the Carmel City Council and the Alarm Corporation may well serve to keep unsightly television aerials out of Carmel. The company's cable plan eliminates aerials and the council is in favor of any such program.

However, it seems that while the cable can be laid underground, some of the equipment necessary along the line must be above to eliminate the possibility of water damage. Two kinds of amplifying boxes are included, three large ones and some 25 smaller ones.

J. F. Henderson, company spokesman, asked the council if both types could be placed above ground. The council after long discussion asked that the company place the large (40 inches high) boxes on private property and that it bury the smaller (10 inch) boxes. Henderson explained that it was vital to the whole system that the large boxes be kept operating. The smaller ones, he said, only affect a few users so if they were damaged the circuit would not be broken.

The council told Henderson that if the large boxes were on private property they would be more likely to be hidden by shrubbery and so would not be an eyesore. He agreed and said the company would contact the property owners at the three locations immediately.

SCHOOL NOTES

The Bay elementary school district may join the Carmel unified district after a long period of unrest as part of the Monterey system.

The question involved was the make-up of the redistricting committee which handles such problems. Up until now each Monterey district had a representative on the committee. But according to a recent opinion by the attorney general, only the Monterey High School district can have a representative. The result is that the Monterey system cannot outvote the Carmel and Bay districts as was the case in the past.

If the redistricting committee approves of the plan to have Bay join Carmel, the matter will be put up to the voters in the Bay district.

Carmel teachers will receive $200 more next year, according to a plan worked out by the school board and the teachers. The raise is half of the teachers' request, the total amount being limited by district funds available. The salaries will be reviewed in the fall after the budget is set.

Warren Edwards was appointed vice principal of Carmel High School by the board. He will take over his duties in September.

CARMEL ELEMENTARY SCHOOL REGISTRATION

Registration for next year's Kindergarten classes will take place on May 13, 14, and 15, at Sunset School and at Carmel Woods School. Registration times will be from 8:30 through 11:15 and from 1:00 through 3:30. The kindergarten teachers will be handling the registration on May 13.

Students living north of Ocean avenue will register at Carmel Woods School and students living south of Ocean avenue will register at Sunset School.

To enroll for next year's kindergarten the child must have been born on or prior to December 2, 1947. Verification of date of birth must be submitted at the time of registration in accordance with school law.

First grade enrollment, for those children NOT now enrolled in kindergarten, is the same as above except for the date of birth. For first grade enrollment, the date of birth must be on or before December 2, 1946. Children now attending public school kindergarten are all eligible for the first grade under the old age minimum and do not need to register for the first grade.

EMPLOYEES ASSOCIATION

The Carmel City Employees Association was organized for the positive purpose of bettering the employees and to maintain good relationships between them and the council and the citizens. "We are not a union in any sense of the word," Floyd Adams, chairman, explained. "We were not formed to become a bargaining agent."

The announcement of the formation of the association was made at this week's council meeting. The council voted to send the new group a letter welcoming them to make suggestions to the council.

Besides Adams, the other officers are James Kelsey, vice-chairman, and Thomas L. Griffin, secretary.

PROBLEM IS SOLVED

A spirit of cooperation solved what might have been a knotty problem for the city council. The use of the grounds around the Forest Theater for a summer day camp was approved provided that the program did not interfere with the activities of the Forest Theater Guild.

The summer camp plan has the backing of both the Recreation Commission and the school district. The Guild's position was merely that it desired to protect the properties it has built there.

RED CROSS COURSE

There will be an orientation course for all those interested in doing volunteer Red Cross work next Friday at 10 a.m. The meeting, which will be held in the Dolores street office, is to give basic facts on Red Cross work to those who want to be staff aids, nurses' aides, or in the canteen or motor services.

HOTEL MEN MEETING

Next Wednesday Peninsula hotel and motel operators will meet for dinner to discuss methods of bringing more tourist and convention business to the area. The dinner, at the Casa Munras, is being sponsored by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

CRICKET MATCH SUNDAY

The Del Monte Cricket Club will meet the Golden Gate Cricket Club on Sunday at 1 p.m. at the High School athletic field. It is the second in a series of inter-club matches being played by the local team. Admission is free and the public is cordially invited to attend.

FISHING DERBY OPENS

Monterey's first annual Salmon and Deep Sea Fishing Derby got off to an excellent start Saturday despite the opening of trout season. Over 100 fishermen registered and a total of 35 salmon and other species were caught.

The Lively Arts

WARSHAWSKY SHOW BEGINS

An exhibition of the painting of Abel G. Warshawsky, prominent Carmel artist, will open today at the Pebble Beach Art Gallery, to run through May 25. The painting will be on display from 10 until 5 on weekdays, and from 1 until 5 on Sundays.

An internationally recognized artist, Warshawsky has spent much time in France, and holds that nation's Legion of Honor award. Accomplished in landscapes, Warshawsky is perhaps even better known for his portraits.

The current showing consists in part of older paintings, but is primarily the fruit of the artist's most recent trip to France, from which he returned this year. He is a member of long standing in the Carmel Art Association, and his paintings are hung in the Corcoran Gallery, the Cleveland Museum, the Akron Museum, and the California Palace of the Legion of Honor.

WORLD AFFAIRS SPEAKER

The World Affairs Council of Monterey Peninsula has been fortunate in obtaining Professor Eric C. Bellquist of the Berkeley Campus of the University of California as principal speaker at the Scandinavian Film Forum which is to be held at Sunset Auditorium, Carmel, at 8 o'clock the evening of May 12.

Professor Bellquist, who is in the Department of Political Science, has long been a student of the Northern countries. He has served as First Secretary and Public Affairs Officer at the U.S. Embassy at Stockholm and has also travelled extensively in Denmark, Finland, and Norway, and was in Finland for the elections of last July.

Among the films which will be shown is a sound and color film which Professor Bellquist will bring with him. This film was done by Arne Sucksdorff who, to quote Professor Bellquist, is "one of the world's really great photographers and who, incidentally, received an 'Oscar' for another one of his documentaries." To quote further: "The music is by Hilding Rosenberg, an outstanding composer." The film has been shown in New York but not yet on the Pacific Coast.

A sound and color film, "Wings to Finland," which is to be loaned by Pan American Airways, together with several shorts which have never been seen on the Monterey Peninsula, will also be shown.

Valdemar Hempel, formerly of Denmark, who is director of the Division of Romanic-Germanic Languages at the Language School has kindly consented to act as moderator, and other instructors in the Scandinavian Language group will be present to answer questions.

Gunnar Hodgin, now attending Monterey Peninsula College, who was selected as Scholarship Student from a large number of applicants in Sweden by the Monterey Peninsula Foreign Student Scholarship Committee, will be asked to say a few words on the subject of International Student Exchange, and will be present to answer questions about student life and sports in Sweden.

The Film Forum is sponsored both by the World Affairs Council of Monterey Peninsula and Adult Education. An invitation to attend is extended to all who may be interested.

PEBBLE BEACH SHOWING

RUBENSTEIN HERE TONIGHT

World-renowned pianist, Artur Rubinstein, will be heard in recital tonight at Sunset Auditorium under the auspices of the Carmel Music Society. This is the concluding concert of the season.

Rubinstein's program will include a Haydn Andante, Schubert's Impromptu in A flat, Beethoven's "Waldstein" sonata, a group of Chopin pieces, Ravel's Ondine and the Mephisto Waltz by Liszt.

Those attending are urged to arrive in time to be seated by 8:30 p.m. as latecomers will not be seated until a break in the program.

FIESTA PLANNED

Plans are nearing completion for the second annual "Fiesta de las Monjas" (The Fiesta of the Nuns) at the Carmel Mission May 25. Those organizing the affair plan to have a wide variety of entertainment for all ages.

Various parish organizations are helping with the details of planning the fiesta. Proceeds from the dinner, booths, rides and other entertainment will go to the Notre Dame Nuns at the Mission School.

CARNIVAL A SUCCESS

The Carnival held last Saturday by the Girls' League of Carmel High School and the Carmel PTA was pronounced a great success by Mrs. Malcolm Foster, PTA president. Over $1400 was grossed, an amount more than sufficient for the two scholarships planned. The amount of each scholarship may be increased or a third scholarship may be awarded. This will be decided at the PTA meeting to be held next Tuesday, May 13, at the Sunset School Cafeteria at 3 p.m. Installation of new PTA officers will also take place at this time.

WATTS' RECEPTION AT ART ASSOCIATION

A reception was held at the Carmel Art Association gallery Sunday night honoring William Watts who is currently having a one man show of his water colors in the Beardsley Room.

Officiating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Armin Hansen and Mrs. George Seideneck.

A feature of the general show in the other room of the gallery was a beautiful water color by John Singer Sargent which was loaned to the exhibition from the collection of Richard Blaney of Carmel Highlands.

Public school students of the whole Peninsula, for the first time, have had an art show all their own. The two-day show was held at the Pacific Grove Civic Club Wednesday and Thursday and was a notable success.

The show, sponsored by the club, was designed to encourage young artists and to interest adults in school art work, according to Mrs. O. F. Crush, chairman of the group.

The committee of school officials which handled the art show was headed by Richard Matteson of Monterey Peninsula College and included Richard Hagadorn of Carmel High School and Gerome Castagnetto of Sunset School.

MILLARD NOW PLAYHOUSE PRESIDENT

Recently elected to succeed Edward Kuster as president of the Carmel Playhouse Corporation is Malcolm Millard, Carmel lawyer. Millard, who has been active in art and civic activities since moving to Carmel from Chicago, has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Carmel Playhouse for about a year. Fritz Wurzmann has been reelected to the office of vice-president, and Mrs. Gunnar Norberg to secretary-treasurer.

Edward Kuster, retiring president, has signed a year's contract as manager of the Golden Bough Playhouse, now being built by the Carmel Playhouse Corporation and successor to the Golden Bough Playhouse destroyed by fire three years ago this month.

Millard announced at a recent organization meeting of the Carmel Playhouse Advisory Finance Committee, that W. C. Aldous, resident manager for Davies & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, has been appointed exclusive agent for the remaining preferred Stock of the Carmel Playhouse Corporation. April 25, Aldous met with the large number of Peninsula residents who have agreed to serve on the Finance Committee, and the entire group inspected the new building from projection booth to the player's circle in the basement Greenroom.

Millard extended an invitation to all residents who are interested in this community theatrical project to visit the structure. Anyone wishing a "guided tour" should contact the manager-to-be, Edward Kuster, at 9528, or the secretary-treasurer, Barbara Norberg, at 7-4210.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

As a Matter of Fact...

Out of all the newspaper and magazine columns I read, the ones I enjoy most are those that pack in a whole lot of facts — unrelated facts, but each one an interesting bit of information in itself.

These columns go something like this: "Did you know that humpback whales are addicted to snoring? That bees have been bred with red, brown, and buff-color eyes?

"Did you know that lead can be converted to gold — at a cost of $1,000,000 an ounce? That a 555-pound fat girl went on a diet and lost 401 pounds in 12 months? That a chrysanthemum has been developed that smells like a violet?"

From where I sit, maybe I'm a kind of "Johnny-one-note." My own columns always seem to revolve around one idea—a plea for us to make sure we respect the other fellow's rights—like the right to vote for your own choice or the right to enjoy a glass of beer now and then. I may not be in style, but I believe my one fact is worth repeating—and remembering!

HOWARD RIGSBY, a modest, quiet Carmelight, is a person who has brought off the feat of living by his pen, a successful slick and mystery fiction writer.

Born in Denver, he became a Californian at 12, and was raised in Berkeley, from where he made a visiting acquaintance with Carmel.

His writing career began in college where a job on the Reno Journal went with Rigsby's days at the University of Nevada. Like many another aspirant, on graduating Rigsby went to New York where he got a job with a trade journal, a chore that helped support the free lance writing he was doing then.

As an antidote to the dark thirties, the City of Lights beckoned, and he then went to Paris where he wrote pulp stories. Asked about other Carmelites who graced the French capital, he commented that he hadn't known any of them, but that half of Carmel must have been in Paris during the thirties.

It was after coming back from Paris that Rigsby became an editor for Argosy, a job that he held until he enlisted in the Army in 1942. He had, meantime, broken into the charmed circle of well-known slick writers, and was contributing to the Post and Collier's.

From yardbird to Captain, Rigsby spent most of his Army time in personnel work, specializing in race relations, an assignment that kept him in Washington. It was perhaps his close association with the problems of race here that led to his having "South Pacific," a play which he wrote in collaboration with Dorothy Hayward (Mrs. Dubose Hayward), produced in New York. Pretty much occupied with the army, Rigsby wasn't able to see much of the putting into production of his play. What little time he could get away to see the forming of the play was frustrating, since, he saw much he'd have liked to tinker with. The play ran from 1943 thru 1944... lending only its name to the later Michener-Hammerstein "South Pacific."

In December of 1948, Luraine Wooliver and Rigsby were married, joining their four children by previous marriages into one rambunctious household.

An extremely pretty woman, Luraine Rigsby is now mother to Charity, 17, Judy 16, Nancy 12, and Jeremy 10. And the Rigsby household has, for good measure, two dogs, Poochie, an aging but loved spaniel, and Anthony T. Tumbleweed, a lively French poodle, bought in Mexico, who when treated kindly, grins like a canine Grover Whalen.

After their marriage, the Rigsbys moved with their family to Cuernavaca, where they spent a year and a half, and then came back to Carmel. In a big and rambling house, they enjoy a warm family life, and one that seems to slow down Rigsby's output not at all. He has published two mysteries in the last year, "Murder for the Holidays" and "Kill and Tell." At the moment he's working on magazine pieces... and laughs at his wife's suggestion that the family earns its keep. carmel library notes

Three new books at the library this week deal with disloyalty, its causes and cures. Herbert Philbrick in his book, I Led Three Lives, tells of his nine years as a counter-spy for the F.B.I. By day, he earned a living for himself and his family of four as a salesman; by night, he attended meetings of the communist cell in which he was a highly trusted comrade; and, in the small hours of the morning, he typed detailed reports of the party activities for the F.B.I. At the trial of the 11 top communists before Judge Medina, he was the chief witness for the prosecution.

Francis Biddle, who served as Attorney General of the United States during World War II, has become increasingly concerned over the rising fear and hysteria over the Communist threat to our freedom. In his new book, The Fear of Freedom, he deplores the irresponsibility of congressional committees and senators in making unsupported accusations of disloyalty. Biddle feels this country is displaying an "adolescent anxiety" which will result in the loss rather than the preservation of our freedom. Harold L. Ickes has written an introduction for the book.

Much the same thesis is advanced by Archibald MacLeish in his book, Freedom is the Right to Choose. MacLeish, who is a Pulitzer Prize winning author and poet, also feels that fear and hatred are destructive forces and are not the answer to our fight against Communism.

Emily Kimbrough, who in 1923 went Through Charley's Door, tells of her subsequent career with the largest department store in the United States, Marshall Field and Company. Charley's door was the carriage entrance to the store where Miss Kimbrough progressed from salesgirl to buyer. With her usual appreciation for the humour and human interest of each situation, she has written a highly entertaining book.

Good Taste Costs No More is the firm belief of Richard Gump, the present head of Gump's store in San Francisco. Gump has little respect for the sacred cows of interior decoration and his book features some wonderful drawings by Gerhardt Hurt of, among other things, 'clinkers by Chippendale.' It also has liberal photographic illustrations.

The ups and downs of a little theatre group whose roster would make a present-day producer green with envy are recorded by Norris Houghton in But Not Forgotten. In this book, he tells of the University Players who included Henry Fonda, James Stewart, Margaret Sullavan, Joshua Logan, Mildred Natwick, Bretaigne Windust, and himself.

Eileen Bigland has written a biography of Maria Louise Rame, the Victorian novelist, who under the name of "Ouida" wrote over forty novels, the best known of which is Under Two Flags. Ouida was a fabulous character whose life outshone any of the creatures of her imagination and whose novels had a lasting literary

the one and only "Pee Wee" Markley

To all my friends and patrons:

It's been a long long time since top star billing of professional entertainment has been offered here on the peninsula equal to the 3 floor shows presented nightly by "Pee Wee" Markley. As Master of Ceremonies, his show is entirely different from anything ever presented in night clubs in this area. His comedy and wit are absolutely terrific-- ask those who have seen him. Arrange to see him during his limited engagement here as you will not see or hear any better or finer top entertainment anywhere--even in San Francisco night spots. Remember no advance in prices, no cover charge, and the same wonderful dinners with the fresh crab and prawns and all the other appetizers that have made our food fit for a king!

The Amateur Gardener

GARDENING FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

By CHARLES W. DELANEY

Reproducing plants from cuttings or slips is a very old procedure and understood by most practical gardeners; in fact, many gardens have been developed from growing cuttings. Almost any plant can be grown this way; but some of the hardwood plants require special facilities to be successful, such as even temperature and moisture control. The novice may begin with geraniums, fuschias, marguerites, carnations, chrysanthemums, and delphiniums.

GERANIUM CUTTINGS

The geranium is the best with which to start. Select a branch or a side shoot; the stem should be firm and not too soft and green. Cut the stem ¼ inch below a node or joint; cut straight across with a clean sharp knife; make the cutting four to six inches long. Cut off the leaves from the two lower nodes and other leaves may be cut in half; but this is most important--always leave the small leaves at the top. A cutting that has had all of the leaves removed will seldom form roots. The small leaves secrete the hormone that travels down the stem and that is your cutting from the lower branches. Later I shall describe cultural suggestions for their successful growth.

LAYERING TO REPRODUCE

Layering is another method of reproducing plants: Select a branch near the ground, so that it can be bent down on the ground; cut half through the under side near a node, and take off any leaves near the cut. Cover the cut with sand and then lay a brick or heavy stone on it to weight it down. Keep the sand moist until the branch shows growth, then cut off the branch near the cut and allow it to grow for several months. This is the best method of growing holly, pyracanthus, lilacs, canary bird bush, strawberry tree and any other of similar habit of growth.

The experienced gardener will perhaps be bored with the above; but many amateurs have asked how to grow cuttings and for them I have described making cuttings and layering, what makes root formation.

After you have made the geranium cutting, allow the cut end to dry for a few hours before putting it into sand. Any coarse sand may be used; clean river sand is best. Never use beach sand or the dusty sand from the dunes; the one contains salt and the other compacts too much, thus excluding air. Any container may be used. A box or flower pot filled with sand will be adequate. Wet down the sand thoroughly; put the cuttings in 1½ inches deep and press the sand firmly about the base. Set the container out of direct sun or cover with an orange crate which is a miniature lath house. Keep the sand moist but never soggy.

In a short time a callous or a warty formation develops over the cut end and then the fine hair-like roots grow from this callous. This usually requires four to six weeks. The cutting is then lifted out of the sand with a table fork and planted into a four-inch flower pot, using only garden loam and no fertilizer. After the plant shows some growth, it may be shifted to a larger pot or planted in the garden. In the second planting, some fertilizer may be used.
